The Hornets Planet Rebound initiative was launched to help encourage and educate local businesses and individuals on the importance of being environmentally responsible. Hornets Planet Rebound focuses on three eco-friendly platforms including energy efficiency, community beautification and preserving coastal wetlands. Hornets staff members spent the offseason participating in community service projects for each platform that included updating and building a new playground for children at a local domestic violence shelter, planting marsh grass at Bayou Sauvage National Wildlife Refuge and replacing and installing energy efficient lightbulbs in homes around the New Orleans area. In addition, the Hornets have encouraged staff members to become more eco-friendly in the office by providing item-specific recycling bins, giving each staff member a branded mug to avoid the use of Styrofoam, removing fax machines and encouraging the use of e-fax and distributing weekly eco-friendly tips and fun facts.

LEADERSHIP

George Shinn

Owner

Growing up in the small North Carolina town of Kannapolis, businessman George Shinn dreamt of owning a professional sports franchise. Armed with only a love of sports, seasoned sales skills and strong faith, Shinn set out to accomplish this seemingly impossible task in 1985 when he initiated his charge to obtain an NBA franchise. He needed just two years to realize his dream. On April 1, 1987, NBA Commissioner David Stern called Shinn to deliver the good news – he had been selected as the first to receive one of four expansion franchises and would begin play in Charlotte, N.C. in 1988.

As the owner of the team from its inception and the subsequent 14 seasons in Charlotte, Shinn officially filed an application with the NBA on January 17, 2002, to move the Hornets to New Orleans, La., beginning with the 2002-03 season. Four months later, the NBA's Board of Governors unanimously endorsed the Relocation Committee's recommendation to move the team from Charlotte and the New Orleans Hornets were born.

Shinn's leadership and resolve once again came to the forefront when the Hornets were faced with perhaps the biggest challenge in franchise history. In the aftermath of the tragedy caused by Hurricane Katrina, he was able to work with the NBA to secure the team a temporary home in Oklahoma City for the 2005-06 season. Under his leadership, the Hornets turned a potentially devastating situation into one of sports' most uplifting success stories when they finished 11th in the league in attendance. The 2006-07 season was again split between New Orleans and Oklahoma City, and Shinn's business and marketing acumen were key to successfully executing games, special events and charitable efforts in both cities.

In the summer of 2007, he brought the Hornets back to Louisiana on a full-time basis and focused his efforts on three goals: the successful relocation of his business, the rebuilding of New Orleans and bringing an NBA championship to the state of Louisiana. In each of the three markets; Charlotte, Oklahoma City and New Orleans, Shinn helped cultivate a love for the NBA which resulted in each receiving its own franchise.

The 2007-08 season in New Orleans was the most successful in franchise history on and off the court. The team had a franchise-best 56 wins, won the Southwest Division title for the first time and helped turn New Orleans into a basketball city. Shinn continuously shows his commitment to bringing home a championship to New Orleans. He played an integral role in the new designs of the Hornets logos and uniforms for the 2008-09 season, using his commitment and passion for New Orleans as inspiration.

As a champion of the causes of education and responsible corporate citizenship, Shinn takes great pride in creating, implementing and supporting a variety of initiatives that leave a positive and lasting impact in the community.

The Shinn Foundation has generated over $4 million to aid in the recovery of New Orleans and give back to neighbors in need. For the past 20 holiday seasons, the Shinn family provides a hot lunch and entertainment for thousands of local senior citizens, collects and distributes shoes and socks to hundreds of residents at local substance abuse facilities and brightens the holidays for hundreds of underprivileged kids with shopping sprees or new bikes. More than 50,000 lives have been touched by the Shinn's Season of Giving holiday initiatives alone in Louisiana. Hoops for Homes was created by the Shinn Foundation directly following Hurricane Katrina to rebuild homes in the New Orleans community. To date, the project has impacted funding and repairs for over 65 homes for deserving families. Every year on his birthday, Shinn spends time at hospital maternity wards donating diapers, bottles and other essentials to every mother who gives birth on May 11th.

These examples of dedication to making a difference in the community come from the core of Shinn's personality and background.

As a young man in Kannapolis, Shinn worked in a textile mill, at a car wash and even as a janitor in a school that he would eventually own. Lessons learned in those humble beginnings would soon pay off when in 1975, at the age of 34, Shinn was the youngest person ever awarded the prestigious Horatio Alger Award, which recognizes "rags-to-riches" business leaders who achieve success while maintaining values in patriotism, faith and civic involvement. His purchase and development of the Rutledge Education System and its chain of proprietary business schools would form the cornerstone of his fortune and eventually lead him to real estate developments, auto dealerships, publishing ventures and professional sports franchises including the Hornets, the Charlotte Knights AAA minor league baseball team and the Charlotte Checkers and Atlantic City Boardwalk Bullies of the East Coast Hockey League. Although he owns championship rings from the Knights and the Bullies and a World Series ring as a AAA affiliate of the Florida Marlins, Shinn's number one goal has been and will continue to be winning an NBA championship with the Hornets.

Shinn was inspired to share his success secrets with others and authored five books, including his 1977 autobiography "Good Morning, Lord!" (later re-printed as "The American Dream Still Works") and "Leadership Development," which became a best-selling college textbook. Later, a biographical account of his life and experiences as an NBA owner was told in "You Gotta Believe," and he published "Introduction to Professional Selling" and "Miracle of Motivation," which are still on the market today.

His success in the publishing world makes Shinn a highly sought-after public speaker, especially on topics related to sales and motivation.

For a lifetime of achievement in business and higher education, Shinn was one of 12 to receive an American Success Award from President Bush in a White House ceremony. He also holds six honorary degrees in humanities.

In 2009, Shinn was named a Weiss Award Recipient from the New Orleans Council for Community and Justice for outstanding contributions to the rebuilding of New Orleans and surrounding communities. He was also named the 2009 American Red Cross Humanitarian of the Year by the New Orleans Chapter for his continuous efforts to revitalize New Orleans. In addition, he understands the importance of sports at all levels to the city of New Orleans and is spearheading a committee to help ensure the future of athletic programs at the University of New Orleans.

Shinn and his wife, Denise, were married in New Orleans on March 8, 2003. Denise shares her husband's passion for people and is formerly a registered nurse. Today, her efforts are concentrated on the franchise's community initiatives. She uses her love for helping others to guide the Shinn Foundation as its president, and was instrumental in the foundation's re-launch last year. Her passion lies in reaching out to others and ensuring that the organizations' community platforms meet the needs of countless lives in and around New Orleans. Shinn also has three children, Chris, Susan and Chad.

Gary Chouest

Minority Owner

Gary Chouest joined the Hornets family as minority owner on July 24, 2007 when he purchased 25 percent of the New Orleans Hornets. A longtime Hornets season ticket holder and noted basketball enthusiast, Chouest's local ties, passion for the sport and commitment to rebuilding and improving the Gulf South region made him the ideal partner for the Shinn family.

Chouest currently serves as President and CEO of the Edison Chouest Offshore companies. Based out of Galliano, La., the group builds, owns and operates marine vessels, employing over 7,500 men and women worldwide.

Edison Chouest Offshore evolved from a two-vessel shrimping operation founded by Edison Chouest, Sr. (Gary's father) in the 1950s to one of the premier owners and operators of specialty marine vessels in the world. Chouest joined the company full-time at age 19 and has since worked in all capacities, starting out as a deckhand and working his way up to captain.

He was also instrumental in the formation of North American Shipbuilding in 1974. The shipyard was founded in response to clients' demands for higher-quality and more specialized vessels. Located in Larose, La., this world-class facility builds only for Chouest-affiliated companies. Following the success of North American Shipbuilding, Chouest opened up five more shipyards: North American Fabricators (Houma, La.), Gulf Ship (Gulfport, Miss.), NavShip (Brazil), Tampa Ship (Tampa, Fla.), and, most recently, LA Ship which is still under construction in Houma, La.

In 1996, Chouest entered into a new business with the formation of C-Port. C-Port stands as the hub of Port Fourchon, the Gulf of Mexico's premier deepwater port. Purpose-designed to reduce port turnaround time, the two C-Port terminals comprise 18 specialized slips, configured to safely and efficiently transfer cargo and provide a wide range of support services to accommodate the largest of deepwater offshore vessels.

Chouest and his wife Carolyn, have been married for 45 years. They have one daughter (Dionne) and four sons (Dino, Damon, Casey and Ross). All of their children are actively involved in the family business. Gary and Carolyn, their five children, spouses and grandchildren can be found enthusiastically cheering on the Hornets at each and every home game and many away games, including the playoffs. The Chouest family also actively participates in the Hornets' numerous community initiatives.

Hugh Weber

President

As president of the New Orleans Hornets, Hugh Weber facilitates all aspects of the franchise, including strategic planning, business development, marketing/branding, and day-to-day operations for more than 125 employees. Following the direction of Hornets Owner George Shinn, Weber is tasked to instill the Hornets values at every level of the organization, encouraging the entire Hornets family to display passion, purpose and pride in every aspect of life.

Prior to his role as team president, Weber served as chief operations officer and vice president of business operations, overseeing all aspects of the New Orleans market while the team was headquartered temporarily in Oklahoma City.

Weber's goal is to maintain a fiscally responsible franchise that competes at a championship level on the court. The organization, guided by Weber's strategic vision and extensive leadership, has experienced as much success off the court as the team has produced on the court. Over the last two seasons, the Hornets have experienced record-setting ticket sales in and have committed to numerous community initiatives set forth by the Shinn family as the entire Hornets organization continues to assist with the revitalization of Southeast Louisiana.

Weber is a board member of a variety of community and economic development organizations including the Business Council of New Orleans and River Region, Greater New Orleans, Inc., and WYES Television New Orleans.

Weber and his wife, Julie, reside in Metairie and have four children, Brenna (14), Zoë (14), Hugh, III (8) and Jackson (7). In his spare time, Weber enjoys running, golfing, reading and spending time with his wife and children.

Chad Shinn

Executive Vice President of Basketball

Chad Shinn has been closely involved with the Hornets organization since its inception in 1987. As executive vice president of basketball, he advises ownership and senior management on key decisions and strategies affecting the team on the court and in the community. Shinn has made it a priority to work closely with the general manager and basketball operations staff to ensure the team continuously improves at all positions and is committed to maintaining a championship-caliber squad on the court.

In his current role, Shinn relies on his 20 years of experience in basketball to advise and provide insight about basketball-related decisions. His father, Hornets Owner George Shinn, relies on Chad's expertise and basketball knowledge as the Shinn family strives to put the best team together in Hornets uniforms.

During the 2007-08 season, Shinn played a key role in developing the inspiration for the "Fleur de Bee" patch which was launched as the team's secondary logo for the 2008-09 season.

In 2007, Shinn spearheaded the organization's return home to New Orleans after Hurricane Katrina forced the franchise to temporarily reside in Oklahoma City for two seasons. He coordinated and led "Team 504," a committee comprised of staff members focused on the logistics of moving the business and more than 75 staff members and their families.

In his previous experience with the Hornets, Shinn worked with several different departments to learn the daily operations of the organization. He spent the 2004-05 season as an assistant to the general manager and equipment manager, and during the 2005-06 season he served as special assistant to the owner and president.

Shinn and his father were featured in the June 2008 issue of New Orleans Magazine's special issue showcasing local father-son duos. Chad has also been featured in an April 27, 2009 Chris Rose article titled "Hornets' Chad Shinn is father George's heir apparent."

Shinn graduated from Texas Tech University High School in Charlotte, N.C. and attended Tulane University in New Orleans. He currently resides in New Orleans and is a member of the Board of Trustees for Loyola University and the Young Leadership Council.

BASKETBALL OPERATIONS

Jeff Bower

Executive Vice President and General Manager

Jeff Bower's versatility has been an invaluable asset to the Hornets' basketball staff during his 14 seasons with the club. As the team's general manager, he handles all day-to-day basketball operations and oversees player personnel decisions, the coordination of schedules for the entire scouting staff and the compilation of data in preparation for the NBA Draft.

The 2008-09 Hornets team battled through many injuries during the course of the regular season, but was still in the hunt for the Southwest Division title late in the season. The Hornets captured 49 wins en route to a second-straight playoff appearance. Bower was able to land key free agent James Posey to help complement the young core players that helped the Hornets make a deep run in the previous season's playoffs.

The 2007-08 Hornets squad set a franchise record with 56 wins, representing the culmination of Bower's efforts to rebuild the team following the 2004-05 season. The Hornets completed a 38-game turnaround in just three seasons under his direction. The record-setting roster was formed when Bower was able to keep certain pieces that were key to the Hornets' previous success and combine them with new additions that he felt the team needed to reach the next level.

Bower's first season as general manager (2005-06) resulted in a 20-win improvement over the previous season (best in the NBA). That success fueled him to build on the team's momentum and overhaul the roster for the 2006-07 campaign. Through an intricate series of moves on both a large and small scale, a new and improved roster was formed (including free agents Peja Stojakovic and Jannero Pargo and trade acquisition Tyson Chandler) and the Hornets had completed their busiest and most exciting offseason in franchise history. Perhaps most impressive of all was the fact that Bower was able to accomplish his goals, fill the desired roster spots and add the exact players he targeted while keeping the team under the salary cap. Despite being hit with a slew of injuries (Stojakovic missed 69 games, Chris Paul missed 18 games, David West missed 30 games and Jackson missed 26 games), Bower's 2006-07 Hornets were still able to exceed the previous season's win total and were in contention for a playoff spot until the final week of the regular season.

Bower began his tenure with the Hornets as an advance scout from 1995 to 1997 before earning a promotion as the team's director of scouting, where he served from the 1997-98 season through 1999-00. In addition to his scouting duties during the 1998-99 season, Bower joined the coaching ranks as an assistant after Paul Silas was named interim head coach on March 7, 1999 (and helped him lead the Hornets to a 22-13 record). He was named assistant general manager for the 2000-01 season. On June 4, 2001, Bower was promoted to general manager (under then-Vice President of Basketball Operations Bob Bass) and held that position through the 2002-03 season. He returned to the bench as an assistant coach under Tim Floyd in 2003-04 before returning to the front office as director of player personnel in 2004-05. Bower's years of experience working at all levels in the Hornets' basketball operations department culminated with his appointment to the current post of general manager just prior to the start of the team's 2005-06 training camp.

Prior to joining the Hornets, Bower enjoyed an impressive career at the collegiate level. He spent three years as an assistant coach at Penn State University from 1983-86 before moving to Marist College in Poughkeepsie, N.Y. After first serving as an assistant coach from 1986 through 1990, he was promoted to associate head coach, a position he held for five years. Bower helped lead the Red Foxes to an NCAA Tournament appearance in 1987 after winning the Northeast Conference. He also coached former Indiana Pacers center Rik Smits, the second overall pick in the 1988 NBA Draft, for two years during his time at Marist.

In addition to his college and NBA accolades, Bower was a three-time guest of the International Basketball Academy held in Pula, Croatia, where he gave coaching clinics and provided instruction to players.

The native of Hollidaysburg, Penn., and his wife, Lisa, have a daughter, Lindsey (born in January 2003). Bower holds a bachelor's degree in history/education from St. Francis College in Pennsylvania.

Byron Scott

Head Coach

As head coach of the Hornets for the last five seasons, Byron Scott has led the team through a complete restructuring, an unprecedented two-year run playing for two cities due to a horrific natural disaster and currently, two-straight playoff appearances. He has instilled the team with the tenacity and mental toughness that helped him reach eight NBA Finals (and win three NBA titles) as a player and coach.

After exceeding all expectations other than his own in the 2007-08 season, Scott helped build the Hornets into one of the most respected and feared teams in the Western Conference during the 2008-09 season. The Hornets battled through many injuries to their top players and still managed to be in the thick of the Western Conference playoff race. The 2008-09 team finished with 49 wins and another playoff appearance. The reigning Coach of the Year was again honored as the Western Conference Coach of the Month for December.

During the 2007-08 season, Scott led the team to a franchise record 56 wins and established it as one of the elite teams in the ultra-competitive Western Conference. The Hornets' team success translated into individual honors for Scott, as he was named the 2008 NBA Coach of the Year, head coach of the Western Conference All-Star Team (making him one of just six coaches to man the sidelines for both conferences) and Western Conference Coach of the Month for January (making him just the eighth coach in NBA history to earn Coach of the Month honors in both conferences). Along the way, Scott led the Hornets to the second-best road record (26-15) in the Western Conference and the second-most wins (34) against the Western Conference of any team in the NBA. After defeating the Dallas Mavericks 4-1 in the first round of the 2008 Playoffs, the Hornets fell to the San Antonio Spurs in seven games in the second round.

Scott's first season as head coach saw the team post an 18-64 mark after the decision was made to restructure the team and look toward the future. Scott's second season on the bench was perhaps his most satisfying as a head coach. Just prior to the start of training camp, the team was displaced from its New Orleans home by Hurricane Katrina and landed in Oklahoma City. He would lead the team from the sidelines in four different home arenas and still manage to guide them to a 38-44 record. That 20-game turnaround was the best in the NBA that season, leading to Scott finishing fifth in NBA Coach of the Year balloting. The 2006-07 season began with high expectations and huge promise, but a slew of injuries hampered the Hornets' drive for a playoff spot. The team lost 196 player games due to injury but still managed to stay in contention for the postseason until the final week of the regular season.

Scott came to the Hornets after three-and-a-half seasons in New Jersey, during which time he compiled a 149-139 (.517) record and took the Nets from the bottom of the Eastern Conference (only three teams were worse the season before he arrived) to one of the NBA's elite teams.

He posted a 26-56 mark in his first year with the Nets (2000-01), but guided them to a 52-30 record and a trip to the NBA Finals in the 2001-02 season (just his second as a head coach at any level). The 52 wins were a Nets franchise record and represented the sixth-best turnaround (26 games) in NBA history. The team enjoyed several other franchise firsts, including the Atlantic Division title, the best record in the Eastern Conference and a 50-win season. For his efforts, Scott was named head coach of the Eastern Conference All-Star Team during the 2002 All-Star Game in Philadelphia.

Under Scott's leadership, the Nets finished 49-33 and returned to the Finals in 2002-03. The team captured its second consecutive Atlantic Division crown and once again rolled through the playoffs. After losing the first two games of their Finals matchup with the Spurs, Scott led the Nets back with two consecutive wins to tie the series before they lost in six games.

Prior to joining the Nets, Scott spent two seasons (1998-99 and 1999-00) as an assistant coach with the Sacramento Kings. During his two years in Sacramento, the team posted their first back-to-back winning seasons (27-23 and 44-38) in 20 years. Scott's responsibilities with the Kings included reviewing offensive game plans, advance scouting and individual skill work with perimeter players.

Scott began his coaching career after 14 years as a player in the NBA with Los Angeles (1983-93, 1996-97), Indiana (1993-95) and Vancouver (1995-96). Scott, who holds career averages of 14.1 points, 2.8 rebounds and 2.5 assists, won three NBA championships (1985, 1987, 1988) as a key member of the Lakers' "Showtime" era. He experienced only two losing seasons as a player and his teams qualified for the playoffs in 13 of his 14 seasons. His 183 career playoff games ranks seventh all-time behind Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Scottie Pippen, Danny Ainge, Magic Johnson, Robert Parish and Karl Malone. His best season came during the Lakers' 1988 championship run, when he averaged 21.7 points, 4.1 rebounds and 4.1 assists. After spending his 14th and final NBA season with the Lakers, Scott played one season in Greece for Panathinaikos, where he led the team to the championship.

Scott entered the NBA as the fourth overall selection in the 1983 NBA Draft by the San Diego Clippers before his rights were traded to the Lakers. He played collegiately at Arizona State, where he finished his career as the school's all-time leading scorer with 1,752 points. Scott was named First Team All-Pac 10 as a senior after averaging 21.6 points, 5.4 rebounds and 3.1 assists.

The native of Inglewood, Calif., has an equally impressive record off the court. His non-profit organization, The Byron Scott Children's Fund, has raised more than $6 million over the past decade, with the proceeds going to various children's charities. Scott continued to broaden his résumé during the 2003-04 season when he served as a studio analyst for ABC's NBA telecasts.

Scott and his wife, Anita, have three children, Thomas, LonDen and DaRon.

Did You Know?

Chris Paul recorded 27 points, 15 assists, 10 rebounds and 7 steals in a win at Philadelphia on Jan. 26, 2009. Since the NBA started keeping individual steals statistics, that game was the first time a player had reached those levels of points, assists, rebounds and steals in a game. Just three steals away from a quadruple-double, it was Paul's 9th career triple-double, extending his own franchise record.

NBA Cares is the league's global community outreach initiative that addresses important social issues such as education, youth and family development, and health and wellness. The NBA, its teams, and players support a range of programs, partners, and initiatives that strive to positively impact children and families worldwide.

As part of the league's mission to demonstrate leadership in social responsibility, NBA Cares reaches communities through philanthropy, hands-on service, and legacy projects. Since the program's October 2005 launch, the league, players, and teams have raised more than $110 million for charity, provided more than one million hours of hands-on service, and built more than 425 places where kids and families can live, learn, or play in communities around the world.

NBA Cares reaches millions of children and adults through special programs like NBA FIT and Basketball without Borders. The league and its teams and players also promote environmental awareness and sustainability through NBA Green. During high-profile league events like NBA All-Star and The Finals, community outreach efforts use the power of sport to effect positive social change.

Thanks to strong partnerships with internationally recognized community organizations such as Make-A-Wish, UNICEF, KaBOOM!, Habitat for Humanity, Boys & Girls Clubs of America, Hands On Network, Special Olympics, the Global Business Coalition on HIV/AIDS, Tuberculosis and Malaria, and the UN Foundation, NBA Cares works to improve communities in need around the world.

For more information about the NBA's latest community outreach efforts, log on to: www.nba.com/cares.

Hornets Believe compassion can change lives. Hornets Believe in creating fun, exciting memories that will last a lifetime. Hornets Believe in making dreams come true.

The Shinn Foundation

A champion of the causes of education and responsible corporate citizenship, Hornets Owner George Shinn and wife, Denise, take great pride in creating, implementing and supporting a variety of initiatives that leave a positive and lasting impact in the community. The Shinn Foundation provides financial support for these community initiatives and serves as the team's primary fundraising vehicle for all community programs and charitable contributions. Denise Shinn is the president of the Foundation and takes an active and leading role with a number of the team's charitable and community-based efforts throughout the year including an annual black tie gala, tip-off luncheon and Season of Giving initiatives.

Hoops for Homes

The Hornets' Hoops for Homes initiative was established to assist the New Orleans community rebuild after the devastation of Hurricanes Katrina and Rita. To expand the scope of the Hoops for Homes program, the Hornets started the Hoops for Homes Teachers' Initiative, which provides "stop gap" funding to teachers residing in the metropolitan New Orleans area who lack adequate funds to complete repairs on their homes. To date, the project has impacted funding and repairs for over 65 homes for deserving families.

Educational Initiatives

Hornets MVP Program

The Hornets are partnering with Chevron and Richard's Disposal to launch the "Hornets MVP Program" which will reward 6th-8th graders in the Recovery School District for reaching behavioral and testing scores benchmarks. Students named as a "Most Valuable Pupil" will be invited to the Hornets' Martin Luther King, Jr. Day game on Monday, Jan. 18. Chevron and Richard's Disposal will also be providing over $5,000 worth of scholarships for winners of an essay and art contest during the school year.

Emerge

The Hornets are also teaming up with The Salvation Army and Audubon Nature Institute to provide attendance incentives through the Emerge program. The Hornets, The Salvation Army and Audubon Nature Institute will provide monthly rewards to students who reach their benchmarks such as gift cards to purchase uniforms and school supplies, free admissions to Audubon Institute events, Hornets pep rallies and an invitation to a Christmas party.

Read to Achieve

Read to Achieve is an NBA initiative aimed at developing a lifelong love of reading in children and promoting literacy around the country and world. The Hornets' Read to Achieve efforts focus on elementary school children through Read to Achieve Timeouts and Bookmobile visits. During a "Timeout", a Hornets player or personality will make an appearance at a local school, stressing the importance of reading in all aspects of life.

Hornets Bookmobile presented by Best Western

The Bookmobile is a learning center on wheels, dressed with the Hornets colors, logos and even a replica of the Hornets court and full of free books to pass out to local students. To date, the Bookmobile has distributed more than 90,000 free books to local children. For more information about the Bookmobile, please contact Whitney Mitchell at (504) 593-4863.

Summer Hoops Clinics

This summer, the Hornets brought the excitement of New Orleans Hornets Basketball to more than 2,000 kids through 14 basketball clinics across southeastern Louisiana. In addition to contests, giveaways and a game-night atmosphere, participants received three hours of instruction on basketball fundamentals from former Hornet guard Rasual Butler.

Season of Giving

During the holidays, the Hornets and the Shinn family give back to the community in a series of events that include giveaways, shopping sprees and an annual senior luncheon. The Shinn family provides a hot lunch and entertainment for thousands of local senior citizens, collects and distributes shoes and socks to hundreds of residents at local substance abuse facilities and brightens the holidays for hundreds of underprivileged kids with shopping sprees or new bikes. More than 50,000 lives have been touched by the Shinn's Season of Giving holiday initiatives alone in Louisiana.

Canned Food Drives

Throughout the season, the Hornets hold canned food drives to support local agencies. In addition to collecting food items, members of the Hornets' front office and players volunteer their time in loading, sorting and packing these items to be distributed to neighbors in need.

Wish Requests

The Hornets support a variety of organizations that grant wishes for terminally or chronically ill children from around the country. For more information, please contact Devyn Smith at (504) 593-4862.

Hornets Player Ticket Groups

Every season, members of the Hornets squad purchase tickets to donate to non-profit organizations that work with underserved children. Last season, Hornets players Chris Paul, David West, Peja Stojakovic, Ryan Bowen, Morris Peterson, Devin Brown, Hilton Armstrong and Julian Wright purchased these tickets. These kids are given the opportunity to attend a Hornets home game and wear a commemorative T-shirt with the logo of that player's section.

Honeybees

The Honeybees dance squad brings excitement to Hornets games by performing innovative dance routines to a variety of music and play a major role in the Hornets overall game entertainment.

Away from the court, the Honeybees are active in the community by making appearances throughout the year. Last season, the Honeybees represented the Hornets and New Orleans on the international stage by traveling and performing in China, Germany and Spain. Members of the squad also performed for and interacted with active military stationed at Camp Bondsteel in Kosovo, bringing some excitement from home to our country's service men and women. The Honeybees were the featured dancers at the 2008 NBA All-Star Game and were invited to perform in France to promote the 2008 NBA Europe Live tour. This season, the Honeybees will host three Junior Honeybee dance clinics throughout the season for young girls interested in performing on the Hornets hardwood.

High-energy routines, a glamorous look and a unique brand of audience interaction make the Honeybees an excellent addition to any special event. For 21 years, Hugo the Hornet has delighted fans with his daring acrobatics and innovative comic routines to become one of the most beloved and recognizable mascots in the NBA.

Hugo is known to entertain fans with any one of his three identities. As Hugo the Hornet, he is a crowd-favorite and interacts with fans both young and old. As Air Hugo, an inflated version of the mascot, he amuses the Hornet faithful with his unique style of dancing. And as Super Hugo, he amazes the crowd with gravity-defying dunks such as the "Flip Dunk," the "Helmet Dunk" and the famous "Bug on the Windshield Dunk," which helped him become a three-time NBA Mascot Slam Dunk Champion.

While Hugo is found at all Hornets home games during the season, he also makes more than 200 appearances every year for charities, fundraisers and other special events. The lovable bug also spends a great deal of his spare time visiting hospitals, schools and nursing homes.

Last season, Hugo was a hit in Europe as he traveled to the Hornets' preseason games in Germany and Spain. He was also invited to perform for games and events hosted in China by NBA China. Hugo has performed at multiple NBA All-Star Games and was invited to travel to Korea for the league's 2008 NBA Madness event. He has also made appearances at numerous player charity events, MTV Rock-N-Jock Basketball Jams and has traveled the world to perform in countries such as Costa Rica, France, the Netherlands, Italy, Argentina and Australia.

Invite Hugo to buzz by your next special event. Whether it's community, business, sports or any other occasion, nothing puts a little sting in your event like an appearance by Hugo. For more information, please visit Hornets.com or call Justin Bailey at (504) 593-4838.

The Stingers Junior Hip-Hop dance squad is made up of 24 talented boys and girls between the ages of seven and 12 who perform fast-paced routines to hip-hop and Top 40 hits. These kids take the court with a big presence, and their high-energy performance style leaves the crowd energized.

The Stingers perform at approximately 10 Hornets home games and can also be found at Hornets' special events.

To have the Stingers appear at your next event or for more information, please call Ashley Deaton at (504) 593-4840 or e-mail Stingers@hornets.com.

The Used to Bees senior dance squad has become a fan favorite at the Hive. This lively bunch is made up of 20 young-at-heart females, and one brave gentleman, all over the age of 55. Their routines combine old school moves with some new hip-hop flair, and they have become one of the most buzzed about entertainment teams to take the court.

For more information about the Used to Bees, please contact Ashley Deaton at (504) 593-4840.

The Hornets Drumline consists of 11 talented members from New Orleans' very own Master's Touch Drumline. Under the direction of Mr. Calvin Berry, each member is required to maintain a 3.0 or above GPA on their road to becoming well-accomplished and respected musicians. The Hornets also have a Mini Drumline which includes talented youngsters between the ages of 3-10.

For additional information on booking the Hornets Drumline for your next event, please contact Keisha McGee at (504) 593-4834 or keisham@hornets.com.

The French Quarter Flyers are the New Orleans Hornets' own high-flying dunk team who are not afraid of flying above the rim. You can catch the team performing electrifying acrobatic dunks at select Hornets home games, or as they take their show on the road around the New Orleans community.

For additional information, please contact Keisha McGee at (504) 593-4834 or keisham@hornets.com.
